

The Sixth Judicial Circuit Covid-19 Information and Updates

- Masks and Social Distancing In Courtrooms No Longer Required
- Civil Trials Resume in Pasco County
- Health Screenings to Stop at Courthouse Entryways
- Criminal Jury Trials Resume in Pasco County
- Jury Trials Resume in Pinellas County
- The Sixth Judicial Circuit is in Phase 2 in the Reopening Process
- Defendant's Presence Not Always Necessary
- Remote Proceedings
- Quarantine Violations
- Violence Injunction Hearings
- Updates on the Pinellas County Law Library

Masks and Social Distancing In Courtrooms No Longer Required

As of Monday, June 21, 2021, neither masks nor social distancing will be required in courtrooms during in-person proceedings in Pinellas and Pasco counties. That is according to an administrative order signed by Anthony Rondolino, chief judge of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, on June 16. Judge Rondolino's order came 12 days after Florida Supreme Court Chief Justice Charles Canady instructed all 20 chief judges in the state to lift the restrictions as early as June 21 and no later than Aug. 2. That said, participants and observers can still wear masks if they choose to do so. In the same vein, if a participant requests to be socially-distanced during the participant's proceeding, the presiding judge will consider it. Also on Monday, June 21, all types of hearings may be conducted in-person. During the pandemic, many types were heard remotely, either through teleconferencing, the video-conferencing tool Zoom, or a combination of the two, and if a participant has received a notice to the effect his or her case will be heard that way, that is to say, remotely, on or after June 21, that still stands. Also, judges and quasi-judicial officers may continue to conduct remote hearings if they choose to do so. There are exceptions, however, such as criminal trials with an in-custody defendant. To read Judge Rondolino's entire June 16 administrative order, click on the first link below. To read Chief Justice Canady's entire June 4 administrative order, click on the second link below.

Sixth Judicial Circuit Administrative Order 2021-019

Florida Supreme Court Administrative Order 21-17

Back to list

Civil Trials Resume in Pasco County

Anthony Rondolino, the chief judge of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, on Tuesday, May 11, 2021, modified the sixth circuit's operational plan as it affects civil trials in Pasco County because a review of the most recent COVID-19 data indicates there has been sustained improvement there. For one, the positivity rate is continuing to drop. The chief judge has determined that civil jury trials in Pasco may resume May 17, 2021. He had previously determined criminal jury trials and grand jury proceedings could resume March 15, 2021 in Pasco County, and before that, that criminal trials could resume on March 1 in Pinellas County, and civil trials in Pinellas County on March 15.

Back to list

Health Screenings to Stop at Courthouse Entryways

There will no longer be COVID-19 health screenings at the entranceways of the courthouses in the Sixth Judicial Circuit, nor will people coming into our courthouses be required to wear a mask anymore. This is just one takeaway from four administrative orders issued late Thursday, May 6, 2021, by Chief Justice Charles Canady which loosen some, but not all, restrictions that were put into place as a result of the pandemic. For instance, social distancing and masks will still be in full force and effect inside courtrooms during in-person proceedings. However, in the hallways outside courtrooms, social distancing and masks will no longer be required. Signs in common areas reminding people to wear a mask and social distance will be removed. Although the new administrative orders from the Florida Supreme Court do away with some restrictions, the circuit remains in Phase 2, where in-person hearings are allowed in courtrooms as long as certain precautionary measures, such as social distancing and masks, are in place. Please find below the relevant administrative orders signed by the chief justice.

Florida Supreme Court Administrative Order 20-23 Amendment 13

Florida Supreme Court Administrative Order 20-32 Amendment 8

Back to list

Criminal Jury Trials Resume in Pasco County

Anthony Rondolino, the chief judge of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, on Wednesday, Feb. 10, 2021, modified the sixth circuit's operational plan as it affects Pasco County because a review of the most recent COVID-19 data indicates there has been sustained improvement there. As of March 15, 2021, criminal jury trials will resume in Pasco County. Among other factors taken into consideration, the weekly positivity rate of COVID-19 tests in Pasco declined from 9.6 percent for the period from Jan. 17 to Jan. 23 to 7.5 percent for the period from Jan. 31 to Feb. 6. Similarly, the number of new cases declined from 212 to 146 over the two same periods. Civil jury trials in Pasco County, however, will remain suspended until further notice. Last week, on Feb. 3, Chief Judge Rondolino modified the circuit's operational plan as it affected Pinellas County, with criminal trials resuming on March 1 and civil trials on March 15.

Back to list

Jury Trials Resume in Pinellas County

Anthony Rondolino, the chief judge of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, on Wednesday, Feb. 3, 2021, modified the sixth circuit's operational plan as it affects Pinellas County because a review of the most recent COVID-19 data indicates there has been sustained improvement there. As of March 1, 2021, criminal jury trials will resume in Pinellas County. And, as of March 15, 2021, civil trials will resume in Pinellas County. Both types of trials will remain suspended in Pasco County, the other county in the circuit, until further notice. Among other factors, the weekly positivity rate of COVID-19 tests in Pasco remains above 9 percent, while in Pinellas they have dipped below 8 percent. Since the onset of the pandemic, circuits have been instructed by the Florida Supreme Court to consider resuming jury trials only when, among other things, a circuit's positivity rate has been below 10 percent for a sustained period of time.

Back to list

The Sixth Judicial Circuit is in Phase 2 in the Reopening Process

Because of improving health conditions in Pinellas and Pasco counties, the Sixth Judicial Circuit on Tuesday, Sept. 1, 2020, took the next step toward allowing some people, under certain circumstances, into its courthouses for proceedings during the COVID-19 pandemic. Up until now, the circuit has been in Phase 1, as designated by the Florida Supreme Court, where in-person contact is inadvisable, court facilities are effectively closed to the public, and in-person proceedings are rare. As of Tuesday, the circuit is progressing to Phase 2, where limited in-person contact is authorized as long as protective measures are in place. In an operational plan submitted to the Florida Supreme Court on Tuesday, Anthony Rondolino, chief judge of the sixth circuit, notes that the circuit has met the five required benchmarks to make this transition. In quick summary: There have been no confirmed or suspected cases of COVID-19 in any of the circuit's courthouses over a 14-day period. There are no restrictive measures, such as those ordering residents to stay home, in either county. The positivity rate in both counties is less than 10%, and there has been a decline in new cases, in the number of hospitalizations for COVID-19, and the number of emergency room arrivals of residents exhibiting symptoms similar to those associated with the coronavirus. There is a sufficient number of COVID-19 tests available in the community, with multiple testing sites throughout both counties. And the chief judge has worked with his own administration, along with State Attorney, Public Defender, both clerks of court, both sheriffs, and both county administrations, to ensure there are adequate protocols at each of the courthouses. Up until now, the Sixth Circuit, like all circuits throughout the state, has been required to conduct certain types of proceedings, even during the pandemic. Examples of these include first appearances, bond reduction hearings, both juvenile dependency shelter hearings and juvenile delinquency detention hearings, all violence injunction hearings, and hearings involving petitions for risk protection orders. These have been held either in-person or remotely, through teleconferencing or the video-conferencing tool Zoom, during Phase 1, and that will also be the case during Phase 2. Similarly, other types of hearings that have been conducted remotely will continue to be conducted remotely, such as those involving small claims, and probate and guardianship. However, certain types of proceedings which had been on hold during Phase 1 will now go forward, but only after the circuit has been in Phase 2 for 30 days, and only on the condition that the health conditions within the two counties is such that the circuit continues to meet the necessary benchmarks. The types of proceedings that will now go forward include criminal trials for defendants charged with capital or life felonies, and juveniles charged as adults. Priority will be given to those who are currently being held at either of the two county jails. Chief Judge Rondolino has operational teams in place to develop plans for resuming jury trials in a safe manner, with a judge at each of the courthouses serving as a jury trial coordinator. Barring unforeseen developments, it is expected jury trials could commence on Oct. 26, 2020, but because of health and safety protocols, such as physical distancing, there are not expected to be as many under way at one time as there used to be, at least for some time. In his operational plan, Chief Judge Rondolino also details what judges, judicial assistants, and court staff, many of whom have been working remotely during Phase I, must do if they have tested positive for COVID-19, exhibit its symptoms, or who are in close contact with anyone with symptoms or the virus. There is even a new protocol in place in the event someone who works in the courthouse, but not is employed by the circuit, such as someone who, say, works for the clerk, tests positive. In addition to submitting his operational plan to the Florida Supreme Court, Chief Judge Rondolino has signed a handful of administrative orders that dovetail with it, and address such issues as jurors. He is directing the clerks in the two counties to excuse potential jurors who, among other things, have COVID-19, who exhibit symptoms associated with the virus, who have been in contact with someone with the virus, or who have a pre-existing condition, such as chronic kidney disease, that puts them at a high risk for severe illness if they are infected with the virus. Financial hardship is also taken into consideration in the administrative order that addresses jurors. The Sixth Judicial Circuit, and the other 19 circuits in the state, will not be allowed to transition to the next least-restrictive phase – Phase III, where in-person contact is more broadly authorized – until there is an effective vaccine adequately available and in use. Below please see the links to the operational plan, the chief judge’s administrative orders on jurors and jury trials, and the most recent Florida Supreme Court administrative orders on what circuits must do to eventually return to a full operational status.

Chief Judge Rondolino’s operational plan

Chief Judge Rondolino’s administrative order on jurors

Chief Judge Rondolino’s administrative order on the resumption of criminal trials

Chief Judge Rondolino’s administrative order on the resumption of civil trials

Chief Judge Rondolino’s administrative order on criminal court proceedings and remote hearings exceptions

Florida Supreme Court 20-23-Amendment 13

Florida Supreme Court 20-32-Amendment 8

Back to list

Defendant's Presence Not Always Necessary

The Sixth Judicial Circuit is discouraging people from coming to any of our courthouses unless it is absolutely necessary. If you have been noticed to appear in court in Pinellas County for a felony, you should read this Felony Letter. If you have been noticed to appear in Pinellas County for a misdemeanor, you should read this Misdemeanor Letter.

Back to list

Remote Proceedings

With the Sixth Judicial Circuit's increasing use of the videoconferencing tool Zoom, we thought we should let you know that there are certain requirements. You can read about them by clicking here. Using Zoom for Court Hearings. Anyone who is not a party in a proceeding, but who wishes to observe remotely via video, may do so as long as that type of proceeding is open to the public. An observer may not participate in the hearing in any way. The person wishing to observe must follow the protocol for video hearings and must contact the judge's office and request an invitation in order to be able to observe. For a list of proceedings that are not open to the public, click here. To familiarize yourself with Zoom, click here. <https://support.zoom.us/hc/en-us/articles/206618765-Zoom-Video-Tutorials>

The Florida Bar has worked hard to ensure nothing unprofessional occurs on the part of attorneys or pro se litigants during Zoom hearings, and, to that end, has put together a list of best practices and a video on the subject. To learn more, click here

Back to list

Quarantine Violations

Anyone who is arrested on a misdemeanor violation of the coronavirus quarantine will be held without bond at the jails in Pinellas and Pasco counties, according to an administrative order signed by Anthony Rondolino, chief judge of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, on March 27, 2020. Judge Rondolino's order comes after the Florida Supreme Court instructed all judges in the state to take judicial steps related to any violation of orders governing quarantine or isolation, limits on travel, the closures of public and private buildings, and curfews, that have been put into effect after the governor declared a statewide public health emergency at the beginning of this month. "To grant release on bail to persons isolated and detained on a quarantine order because they have a contagious disease which makes them dangerous to others, or to the public in general, would render quarantine laws and regulations nugatory and of no avail," Judge Rondolino's order states, quoting precedent.

The order applies to anyone who has violated Florida statute 381.00315, who is "reasonably believed to be infected" with the coronavirus or who is "reasonably believed to have been exposed" to it. The arresting officer is to notify the jail that the person is or could be infected before bringing them to the jail. The booking staff will then take appropriate measures to ensure the defendant doesn't transmit the virus to anyone else at the jail while incarcerated. Judge Rondolino's order, however, does not stop the judge before whom the defendant first appears following their arrest from modifying the no-bond status or addressing the situation in some other way.

Back to list

Violence Injunction Hearings

Due to concerns about the novel coronavirus, beginning April 6, 2020, and until further decision by the Sixth Judicial Circuit, all violence injunction hearings (domestic violence, dating, sexual, stalking, and repeat violence) filed in Pinellas County will be heard at Pinellas County Justice Center (PCJC) at 14250 49th St N, Clearwater, FL 33762, in Courtroom 1, 4th Floor. Cases previously scheduled for hearing on the violence injunction mass hearing dockets for a date after April 6, 2020, will be rescheduled and amended notices of hearing will be mailed. Parties are encouraged to update their addresses with the Clerk of Court so that they receive all documents mailed by the court. If you do not receive notice of the amended court date, you may contact the Clerk of Court to request a copy of the order. Please note that cases previously scheduled for hearing on the violence injunction mass hearing dockets during the weeks of March 23 and March 30 remain scheduled as previously noticed.

Back to list

“Phase 1” – What Does it Mean?

One of the directives from the Florida Supreme Court regarding the current pandemic sets forth four phases for operational planning purposes:

Phase 1 – in-person contact is inadvisable, court facilities are effectively closed to the public, and in-person proceedings are rare;

Phase 2 – limited in-person contact is authorized for certain purposes and/or requires use of protective measures;

Phase 3 – in-person contact is more broadly authorized and protective measures are relaxed; and

Phase 4 – COVID-19 no longer presents a significant risk to public health and safety.

The Sixth Circuit judiciary is in Phase 1. The phases differ from those established by executive orders of the Governor, county commissions, or municipalities. The phases discussed above are what the court must follow regarding resuming full operations.

So, back to the title question – what does it mean to be in “Phase 1?”

Here are the types of proceedings that may be handled during Phase 1, together with how they may be handled, e.g., in-person, by remote means, or both:

Proceeding type	How handled
First appearance (essential)	In-person and/or remotely
Criminal arraignments (essential)	In-person and/or remotely
Hearings on motions to set or modify monetary bail for in-custody defendants (essential)	In-person and/or remotely
Juvenile dependency shelter hearings (essential)	In-person and/or remotely

Juvenile delinquency detention hearings (essential)	In-person and/or remotely
Hearings on Petitions for Injunctions Relating to Safety of an Individual (essential)	In-person and/or remotely
Hearings on Petitions for Risk Protection Orders (essential)	In-person and/or remotely
Hearings on Petitions for the Appointment of an Emergency Temporary Guardian (essential)	In-person and/or remotely
Hearings to Determine Whether an Individual should be involuntarily committed under the Baker Act or the Marchman Act (essential)	In-person and/or remotely
Hearing on Petitions for Extraordinary Writs as Necessary to Protect Constitutional Rights (essential)	In-person and/or remotely

Critical Proceedings Related to the State of Emergency or Public Health Emergency (e.g. violation of quarantine or isolation; enforcement of curfew orders, etc.) (critical)	In-person and/or remotely
Statewide grand jury selection	Suspended until July 26, 2020.
Grand jury selection	Suspended until 30 days after transition to Phase 2.
Grand jury proceedings	Suspended until 30 days after transition to Phase 2.
Criminal non-jury trials	Suspended until 30 days after transition to Phase 2.
Any trial with speedy trial issues ¹	Suspended.
Circuit criminal trials for capital or life felonies and for in-custody defendants charged with a first-degree felony ²	Suspended until 30 days after transition to Phase 2.

¹ Priority order of trial list is found in the Supreme Court's COVID-19 Workgroup Report on Recommendations for the Priority in Which to Resume Civil and Criminal Jury Trials.

² With regard to persons arrested for first degree murder, all times periods under Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure 3.133(b) and 3.134 shall remain suspended until such time as grand jury proceedings are resumed.

Circuit and county criminal trials with an in-custody defendant	Suspended until 30 days after transition to Phase 2.
Circuit jury trials for juveniles being tried as an adult	Suspended until 30 days after transition to Phase 2.
Circuit and county criminal trials with an out-of-custody defendant	Suspended until 30 days after transition to Phase 2.
Circuit civil jury trials	Suspended until 30 days after transition to Phase 2 (unless circuit is in approved pilot project).
County civil jury trials	Suspended until 30 days after transition to Phase 2.
Termination of Parental Rights trials	Remotely at discretion of judge.
Juvenile Delinquency Non Jury trials	Remotely at discretion of judge.
Noncriminal Traffic Infraction Court Proceedings	Remotely; speedy suspended until further order of the Florida Supreme Court (plans are underway to conduct these proceedings remotely).

Incompetence to Proceed	Remotely, if feasible; to be heard as soon as feasible after the date of filing a motion to determine competency
Circuit Civil non-jury proceedings	Remotely
County Civil non-jury proceedings	Remotely
Small Claims	Remotely (these proceedings are planned to begin remotely in Pinellas on July 16 th , and sometime subsequent to that date in Pasco)
Probate and Guardianship	Remotely
Family	Remotely
Mediation	Remotely
Juvenile Diversion	Remotely

Before moving to Phase 2, certain benchmarks must be met regarding the incidence of COVID-19 in a particular county. The chief judge must evaluate available data and resources and determine whether local circumstances warrant moving into Phase 2 where more in-person hearings could be safely conducted. Once that determination is made, this website will be updated to reflect what activities can take place and in what manner during Phase 2.